

To whom it may concern:

I find it difficult to understand the logic behind this opposition to XM Radio's local content. Generally speaking, isn't satellite radio similar to cable or satellite television. When I have access to a tv I turn on the weather channel to get my local weather forecast. I turn on my local access channel to get up-to-date traffic problems. I think the local broadcasters are challenging the rights of satellite radio with no basis. It is a paid service similar to those listed above and should not be restricted as to its content.
